Sam. Houston.

HOW A MAGNIFICENT VELVET ROBE DID THE BUSINESS FOR THE LONE STAR.

An anecdote of General Houston—"Old Sam Houston" he used to be called—shows how little things sometimes decide the destiny of nations. It was at the time when "the republic of Texas" was in embryo and striving to gain a standing among the nations of the earth. Hamilton and Barnby had gone to England and pushed the claims of the bantling with very poor success at first.

But Hamilton and Barnby were resolute and persevering, and ministers so far yielded to their persuasions as to send out an agent charged with the responsibility of reporting upon the condition and prospects of the country after a personal examination. The gentleman selected was a fine, dashing young fellow named Elliot, the younger son of a nobleman. He had been employed in a diplomatic capacity at one of the inferior courts on the continent, where he had acquitted himself to the satisfaction of the government. There was an implied promise of the recognition of Texas in case of a favorable report from Elliot, and the commissioners had encouraging assurances of procuring a loan in that contingency. They returned elated at their partial success, and the intelligence thereof was received with great joy in Texas.

General Houston, president of the republic, was one of the most perfect specimens of manly beauty to be seen in the country. He was considerably upward of six feet in height, as straight as an arrow, of symmetrical proportions, and as graceful in his movements as a panther. He had a finely turned head and shoulders, and their easy play was wonderful to behold. He affected a picturesque and rather theatrical style of costume; but what in an ordinary man would have been foppishness and affectation, his great personal advantages rendered natural, proper and becoming. In anticipation of the visit of Elliot, he had ordered a magnificent velvet robe from New York—a sort of regal garment that set off his masculine attraction in a splendid manner, but which would have brought ridicule and derision upon almost any other man. It is well known that Houston, although perfectly temperate in the latter part of his life, was at one time addicted to intemperance.

He was not a habitual drinker, but occasionally indulged to fearful excess; and when Elliot arrived in Houston, then the capital of Texas, he was in the midst of one of his worst drunken orgies. In fact, he was lying in the gutter in a state of helpless intoxication But Hamilton and Barnby were equal to the emergency. They received the envoy with becoming respect, conducting him to the hotel with suitable ceremony. He was there informed that the president, General Houston, had been unexpectedly called to Washington, about a hundred miles up the country, on indispensable business, but would be back in a day or two. Awaiting his return they would show the envoy what was to be seen at the capital, and endeavored to make him comfortable.—Meantime the general was taken to the house of a friend, bathed, cleaned and fumigated; and as he had wonderful powers of recuperation, he appeared renovated and refreshed in less than twenty-four hours, and, donning his gorgeous velvet robe, gave audience to the British envoy, looking like a monarch of the lower empire. The effect was electrical.

Elliot was carried away by the affability and dignity of the President. He could hardly express the admiration with which he was inspired. "Why, gentlemen," said he, addressing the commissioners, "I have never seen a man of such commanding, majestic presence. He puts one at his ease at once. His description of the country was eloquent and impressive, carrying conviction in every word. I should consider myself faithless to my duty if I did not recommend the immediate recognition of your independence, and I can insure you all the money you want as soon as my report is presented."

And he performed all he had promised.—Texas was acknowledged as an independent nation, and borrowed $500,000 sterling, and thus the question was settled adversely to the pretensions of Mexico.

Suppose Elliot had stumbled upon Houston as he lay in the gutter?

The cleanliness of the Chinese has been vouched for, but a New Orleans lady, who employed a Celestial John as cook, has had her faith sadly shaken in this respect by the following incident: The lady upon descending into her kitchen the other day, was not a little surprised and still more disgusted to discover her cook leaning over a copiously-filled dish of salad, beating his inflated cheek alternately with his right and left hand, and pouring from his mouth into the dish a gushing spray of a mixture of oil, vinegar, salt, pepper, egg-yolk and mustard, and then, with his tapering digits, mix the whole still further to make it ready for the table. The housekeeper's emotions naturally caused her to faint, and the last heard of the Chinese cook he was applying at a city foundry for a position in the moulding department of the institution, where his services as a spray-spouter would be invaluable.

A family living in the country hired a new coachman and his name was Robert. As both the gentleman of the house and his eldest son was named Robert, it was thought advisable, to avoid confusion, to call the coachman by his last name. Robert had no objection to this plan, and was asked to state his surname. "Deary," said he, with a diabolical grin. The family shuddered. Think of it. How would this sort of thing sound? "Deary, come here a minute." "Have the carriage ready in half an hour, Deary." "How long I have been waiting for you, Deary." The family resolved to stand by Robert.

A Word to Amateur Writers.

Ever since the first establishment of newspapers, there has been a large class of persons who, with no special fitness for such employment, have desired to earn a livelihood by the pen. Those people seem to labor under the delusion that there is a secret understanding among members of the craft to endeavor to exclude as many of the aspirants for literary honors as possible. They never consider how many dull manuscripts an editor is compelled to wade through before he finds one suited to his purpose; nor do they understand his exultation when he at last happens to come upon a fresh, telling article. There is always a market for first-class matter, and the supply never equals the demand; but crude, undigested effusions are to be had by the cart-load, if any publisher can be found insane enough to print them. Many youthful composers think they have a call to write because they can dash off a column article about as quickly as it would require to copy the same amount of writing. Such rapid compositions, however, are seldom of much value, for even when a trained writer, with full knowledge of his suject, sits down to commit his thoughts to paper, the process is comparatively slow and laborious. Facility is a desirable quality in a journalist, but power of thought and a cultivated imagination are much more valuable. Let those, therefore, who aspire to appear in print, be first solicitous that they have something to say worth hearing, remembering that nothing is so conducive to clearness of style as clearness of thought. We did not, however, set out to lay down general rules for amateur writers, but only to reply to a correspondent soliciting employment on the ground of the glibness of his pen, who complains of the coldness with which literary critics receive his productions, and who expresses a fear that journalism is already overcrowded. Daniel Webster once said to a young man who thought there was little prospect for him in the law on account of the crowded condition of that profession, "There is plenty of room higher up;" and so it has always been with literature and journalism. Mark Twain speaks very sensibly on this subject in the November Galaxy, and his remarks are worthy of a careful perusal from all amateur writers. We quote a portion of his reply to a correspondent, as it will serve to answer our own, and contains valuable food for thought for professional men generally. He says: "Literature, like the ministry, medicine, the law, and all other occupations, is cramped and hindered for want of men to do the work—not want of work to do. When people tell you the reverse, they speak that which is not true. If you desire to test this, you need only hunt up a first-class editor, reporter, business manager, foreman of a shop, mechanic, or artist in any branch of industry, and try to hire him. You will find that he is already hired. He is sober, industrious, capable and reliable, and is always in demand. He cannot get a day's holiday except by courtesy of his employer, or his city, or the great general public. But if you need idlers, shirkers, half-instructed, unambitious, and comfort-seeking editors, reporters, lawyers, doctors, and mechanics, apply anywhere. There are millions of them to be had at the dropping of a handkerchief. * * * And by way of serious and well-meant encouragement, I wish to urge upon him once more the truth that acceptable writers for the press are so scarce that book and periodical publishers are seeking them constantly and with a vigilance that never grows heedless for a moment."

How an Indian Raises Peaches.

A correspondent of the Chautauqua Farmer gives the following account of a Tuscarora Indian farmer on the reservation in western New York. We do not think some of the reasoning is sound, but it is encouraging when we have evidence that any one, red, black, or white thinks, and this Indian evidently does:

John Mount Pleasant, who has a farm of 200 acres in the south-west corner of the reservation, about five miles from Suspension Bridge, told me that he cleared $2,000 last year from the proceeds of his fruit orchard; and mentioned, incidentally, that the chief reason why his peach trees were loaded with fruit while others apparently on the same kind of soil bore nothing, was that in setting his trees he always made a deep hole with a bar into which he inserted the tap root as deep as possible. He said the nurserymen, in pulling their trees for market, very often cut off this tap root. He would never set out a tree thus mutilated unless compelled to do so; and in that case he would take the longest lateral root he could find and thrust it down into the hole as a substitute for the original tap root. By pursuing this course he almost uniformly has a liberal crop of peaches. His peach-trees are set in alternate rows with his apple-trees.

He endeavors to keep the ground entirely free from grass and weeds, and never tries to raise any sort of crop among his fruit trees.—A few years ago the so-called quack grass intruded upon his orchard, and took possession of the whole enclosure in spite of all his efforts to prevent it. For a while he feared he should be obliged to succumb to it, but at last a happy thought struck him.

He had a harrow made after the common pattern, except that all the teeth were set with points inclining forward several degrees from the perpendicular. He had conquered. This harrow combs out the quack grass, root and branch; and he has only to let it dry and burn it to be rid effectually of his enemy.

Uncut Leaves.

A writer in one of the papers protests against uncut leaves. It took him five minutes to cut the leaves of his paper, which claims to have a circulation of 50,000. This would amount to 520 days of eight hours. The leaves of the entire edition could be cut by a machine for $25. It took him thirteen minutes to cut the leaves of Harper's Magazine, which were worth more to him than the price of the journal.—Thirteen minutes each, on an edition of 50,000, would amount to a little over four working years. The whole edition could be cut by machinery for less than $100. And yet publishers persist in imposing their unfinished works upon a busy public, exacting a tax which they have no right to inflict, and which if levied in money would be resisted. In England uncut books are fashionable, as aristocratic readers have plenty of time they are glad to get rid of in any way; and the poorest man in the realm takes his cue from my Lord. Cut leaves presuppose that time is valuable and people are in a hurry, which the Englishman looks upon as exceedingly plebeian. It is time all such nonsense were worked out of the American mind. The leaves cut by hand are always ragged and unsightly. They catch and hold the dust, and soon look old and are dirty. And it is an imposition upon the time and patience of readers to compel them to do by hand what can be done ten times as well in a hundredth part of the time, and at trifling expense, by machinery at the binder's. There is no more sense in sending out unfinished books and magazines than in imposing unfinished hats and shoes upon customers.

Yesterday Miss Miller said her friend, Mrs. Thompson, was wrapped up in a beautiful camel's hair that she said she paid $2,000 for at Stewart's,

A Remarkable Family.

A Long Branch correspondent of the World, in speaking of the death of Simeon Leland, gives some interesting details about a remarkable family of hotel keepers, and says: The family have been connected with thirteen hotels, embracing the Astor, the Clinton, the Metropolitan, the St. Charles, the Sturtevant, and the Westchester House, of this city; the Grand Union, the Clarendon, and the Columbia of Saratoga; the Occidental, of San Francisco; the Springfield House; and the Ocean Hotel, Long Branch. They have employed over 2,200 persons at one time, and the joint expenses of their hotels have at one period exceeded $9,000 per day. They have accommodated over 3,000 persons for a week together at their establishments, and it is calculated that their hotels have altogether been patronized by over 1,000,000 people. Not long ago the value of the hotel property rented, owned and controlled by them was estimated at exceeding $2,225,000.

HOW TO COOK A HAM.—The late Gen. Winfield Scott, an acknowledged authority in the culinary art, was of the opinion that few cooks knew how to cook ham because they did not boil it until soft enough to be eaten with a spoon! A great artist once told the writer never to serve a ham under one year old; it was then to be soaked all night in soft water, and, if possible, in running water; to be put on the fire in a large pot of cold weather, and slowly boiled at least twenty minutes for every pound it may weigh; and as for skinning a ham he held it to be an outrage, a sacrifice of quality to mere appearances, which no sensible man should be guilty of. If your ham is served cold, as is always done in Europe, it should be soused in snow or ice water immediately after coming from the pot, because the sudden cold prevents the flow and escape of the juices.

MASONIC TREASURE.—The Troy Whig says that John S. Perry, grand treasurer of the Grand Commandery of the State of New York, has received the new jewels, twelve in number, ordered for the grand officers of that body. Mr. Perry, who is one of the oldest and most prominent Masons in the State, is of course their custodian. Their cost was $700. Each consists of a knitted silk ribbon to be attached to the facing of the coat or vest, crossed with three heavy chased gold bars of beautiful design and finish. At the bottom is suspended a Masonic cross elegantly inlaid with mosaic effect. Across the face of this are affixed the insignia of the respective offices. They are the finest set of jewels, it is said, belonging to any Grand Lodge in the country.

A curious law suit is in progress in France. A butcher, at a country fair, negotiated with a farmer for the purchase of an ox. Terms were agreed upon, the purchaser counted out the price in bank notes, placed them in the hands of the farmer, and the ox immediately thrust out its long rough tongue, licked up the currency, and swallowed it with a gusto. The seller thereupon refused to transfer the ox, claiming that the bargain had not been completed. It is a very pretty quarrel as it stands, in which the ox, being yet unbutchered, is decidedly the best off of all.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Geneva is making money out of the arbitration. The town is crowded with strangers, and the merchants have doubled up prices.

The famous race-horse Lexington died on the 9th, 22 years old.

The thunder storms on Wednesday extended over the Eastern, Middle and Western States, and were accompanied by an excessive amount of lightning. Many buildings were struck and destroyed, while telegraph wires were torn down and the operators shocked.—They were the most fearful of the season.

There are three ships now in Quarantine at New York, with yellow fever on board. They all came from the West Indies.

The first election by ballot took place in England the day after the Queen signed the bill authorizing it. It was held in Boston, Lincolnshire, when a vacancy in the town council was filled. Bert was elected.

Sister Sebastian of the order of St. Francis, whom we reported a few days ago as having mysteriously disappeared, and who was supposed to have been foully dealt with, has turned up all right. She was to go to Cincinnati in a few days to take the final vows of her order, but writes she has dissolved all connection with it. As her standing was good in the sisterhood, there are no allegations against her, and her friends wonder at her change of purpose.

Dan Rice was arrested recently in Lansing, Mich., and fined $15 and costs for assaulting a boy whom he had persuaded to ride his trick mule, but who rode the beast too well to please him.

There is an immense camp meeting going on at Danville, N. J. Some 15,000 people are in camp and many conversions are reported. Bishop Andrews opened the services.

A Manchester (N. H.) spider dines occasionally on mice, having constructed in a favorable location a web sufficiently strong to catch and hold the little rodents until it can devour them at leisure.

Leopold Heyman, a tailor of New York, attempted on Monday to play the role of a detective on Isaac Levey, a merchant of Newark. The latter's wife ran away some six weeks ago with one Brown, taking with her a little daughter. Heyman heard of this and offered to find her for $25, representing he was on the detective force of Capt. Irving. He was arrested and committed for trial.

Out in Ohio there is a hen which has subjected herself to the penalties of the civil rights bill for making "distinction on account of race, color, or previous condition." The other day, after hatching a brood of eight chickens, four black and four white, she deliberately went to work and picked off the heads of the darkeys, while she continues to manifest all of a mother's care and tenderness for the white ones.

The Rio Colorado Chiquito—Little Colorado river—on which the fabulous diamond mines of the California despatches are located, rises on the Navajo Indian reservation, about 150 miles west of Santa Fe and 32 miles southwestwardly 100 to 125 miles; thence northwestwardly about 200 miles, where it empties into the Colorado. The country is covered, on the General Land Office maps, with gold indications, and that south of it with silver.—There is nothing said about diamonds, however.

Sewing Machines.

The hurly-burly of the Sewing-Machine war is ended. Various manufacturers have paraded their machines before the public, with a great flourish of trumpets and waving of banners. In their eagerness to effect sales, the different agents resorted to all sorts of trickery to trap the unwary, and hundreds of farmers' wives, and farmers themselves, in this county, had forced upon them worthless machines in an unguarded moment. You, who have not yet made up your minds which to buy of the many machines offered, we advise to carefully examine into the merits of the "Domestic." Independent of its many good qualities, (and we believe it to be the best in the world) it is in the hands of a gentleman here, well known to thousands of our readers, who would not knowingly make false representations.—We feel justified in saying that we believe A. Goodrich fully satisfied himself, before taking the agency of the "Domestic," that it was perfect in all its parts, and that he could unhesitatingly recommend it to all.

DAILY FREEMAN.

OF KINGSTON, (RONDOUT.)

MORNING, AUG. 19, 1872.

LL FOR THE LIBERAL REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION AT SYRACUSE SEPTEMBER 4TH.

HEADQUARTERS NEW YORK LIBERAL PUBLICAN STATE COM., ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK, Aug. 14, 1872.

The Liberal Republicans of the State of New York, who support on the Cincinnati platform the nominations of Horace Greeley for President and B. Gratz Brown for Vice President of the United States, are requested to send delegates to represent their respective Assembly Districts in a State Convention to be held in the city of Syracuse, on the 4th day of September next, at 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of nominating 35 Presidential and Vice-Presidential electors, and a ticket of candidates for State officers to be elected at the coming November general election, and for the purpose of transacting whatever other business shall properly come before it. Each Assembly District is to be represented in the Convention by three delegates.

By order of the Committee.

JOHN COCHRANE, Chairman.

ALFRED WILKINSON, Secretary.

Administration Frauds.

In the year 1851 George Chorpenning contracted with the government to carry the mails between Salt Lake City and the Pacific coast. Five years later, having suffered some losses through the depredations of the Indians, he applied to Congress for relief and obtained a little over $79,000. Having now learned the by-road of the lobby, he presented a further claim for extra weight and travel, and got this time $29,000. This only gave him courage to prosecute his claim. He went to Congress again and got $223,617.95, although originally he agreed to do the work for $26,500.00 per month. This allowance was thought exorbitant but a final settlement of the case.

There was however no such good luck. Chorpenning next laid claim to $81,000,00, and pressed three Postmaster-Generals to allow it, but they successively refused him after careful examination, alleging, as before, that a final settlement had been made.—Baffled in this manner he resorted to the Court of Claims for $176,000, more than double what he asked of the Department. The court affirmed the decision of the Postmasters, and that was supposed to make a finality of it, whether the prosecutor would or would not.

Thus matters stood until Creswell became Postmaster-General. One of his first acts was to remove his assistant, Geo. W. McLelland, who had always fought the claim, and appoint Giles A. Smith, of the west, in his place. At the same time he made George Earle, his law partner, his first assistant, under a salary of $3,000. Chorpenning now found the way clear. He engaged Earle to press his claim, who did so and prevailed on Congress to pass a special act to reopen it. Now bear in mind this man Earle was in interest with Cresswell, and see the result. He examined the claim and allowed thereon $443,000, much more than was ever before asked for. Chorpenning got his certificate and thought he was out of the woods. But see the sequel. Congressman Dawes got a committee of investigation, who reported nobody was to blame, but asked for the passage of a resolution stopping the payment of the money. This was done.

Now the plea of the administration is that they punish crime and dismiss derelict and dishonest officers, but today Creswell is yet Postmaster-General. Such circumstances have destroyed the Republican party.

Wendell Phillips for Grant.

Mr. Wendell Phillips has come out for Grant. This is a surprising event, for, as he very truly said, when Grant was nominated the first time he went from city to city protesting against his election, aiding of course Mr. Horatio Seymour. If the election of Mr. Grant be indescribably important because the South may be revived under Greeley, and that determines Mr. Phillips to go for Grant, it certainly was as "indescribably important" for him to go for Grant then, as the danger could have been no less then than now, when four years have elapsed. Yet, Mr. Phillips that year electrified his audiences and the readers of his Anti-Slavery Standard, with stories of Grant's being beastly drunk, for the facts of which he claimed to have the most positive evidence.

Having denied in the most positive terms Grant's fitness for the office, he now claims credit that the predictions he then uttered were correct.

Now that he has concluded to go for Grant, notwithstanding he has demonstrated him to be unfit for the office, it is quite easy to see that his reasons must be extraordinary and imperative. The most important is, that if Mr. Greeley is elected confederate bonds will be worth a great deal of money. How Mr. Greeley's election is to bring this about Mr. Phillips does not condescend to make apparent, but with his old time contempt for the constitution he boldly disregards the Fourteenth Amendment, which prohibits the payment of the rebel debt in a manner from which there is no escape. To pay the rebel debt would require a two-thirds vote of Congress, and a three-fourth vote of all the States. The election of a President would have as much to do with the constitutional amendment as one of Mr. Phillips's lectures. If a Congress and the members of State Legislatures necessary for such payment could be elected, it would make but little matter who was President, as the latter hasn't even the power of veto over a constitutional amendment.

A New Danger.

This seems to be a period of time in which novel and peculiar dangers appear to come to the surface. To be sure one supposed danger never reached us, possibly because any reasonable comet would consider that the presidential contest would develop heat enough for all practical purposes. But in its place has come the most remarkable series of electrical displays, of more than ordinary striking qualities, that the papers have recorded in many years.

But the new danger to which we allude is not of supra-terrestrial origin, but is upon the surface of this planet of ours. As it affects a high moral institution, we should heed it. We refer, of course, to the menageries, which from village to village carry their wonders to the waiting children. A strange fatality has attended them of late, and it is becoming a daily occurrence to read of the escape of a boa constrictor, or the lion, or a stray tiger or leopard. John Robinson's crocodile took a swim in the Mohawk the other day, and when the topers of a charming little village in Illinois awoke one morning not long since and went for their ante-breakfast horn, they found a rhinoceros in the public square waiting with it on his nose. How cheerful for the lonesome farmer to learn that a first-class Bengal tiger is spending a few days of his summer vacation in his shadiest woods. What a delightful addition to the ordinary horrors of a railway excursion is the smashing-up of a few of the boxes containing the animals. It's fun to rise from the virtuous couch at early dawn, and catch with the first glance from the window a sight at a troop of monkeys cutting pranks on the lima-bean poles or running races on the clothes line.

What the remedy should be is hard to tell. Some would prohibit the institution altogether, but it is of too moral a tendency for that. It is easy to dispose of a lion, for somebody can step on his tail like the President did on the English beast's, and he will be just as quiet as the latter is. The rhinoceros could be tamed, and the Bengal tiger deprived of his teeth, but the alligator and boa constrictor will still ramble around, the terror of all bad boys who go in swimming where they hadn't ought to. But until the presidential election is out of the way this question must remain unsolved.

What Does it Mean?

By some legerdemain which the progress of events will develop and lay bare, Garvey, Ingersoll and their coadjutors suddenly appear in the streets of New York with all the nonchalance which distinguished them from other men in the days of their glory. A little light comes even now in that Thomas Murphy is often closeted with Tweed, bail by the million being offered; and an order from the Attorney General not to arrest Andrew J. Garvey. This leads us to believe these parties are playing a deep game of politics which, if not exposed, must end in the profit of all the parties interested. In the meantime they keep up a cry against the man whom nothing has seduced from the honest path—Horace Greeley.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Henry A. Wise is to speak against Greeley in New York.

Hon. Wm. S. Kenyon is talked of by the Grantites for Congress.

The Amenia Postmaster and Deputy Assessor are both for Greeley.

Josiah Hasbrouck of Esopus is the Grant candidate for County Treasurer.

Senator Conkling says Greeley was an old secessionist. Why did he go for him for Governor then?

James O'Brien, the original Tammanyite, was named for Mayor on Thursday by the 19th Ward Grant Club.

Andrew D. White is Conkling's candidate for Governor. He's the man who packed the committees at Syracuse.

Mr. Greeley denies the authenticity of the note pretending to come from him relative to the presidential prospects.

Attorney General Barlow denies that he has made an arrangement with Tweed to discontinue the suits against him.

In Michigan every colored voter that can read is for Greeley and Brown. Every colored man in the State can read.

Attorney General Williams distrusts his hold on office as a Cabinet officer, so he is running for Senator in Oregon.

Charles O'Connor, it is stated by a personal friend, will advocate Greeley and Brown, instead of being the candidate of any party.

The New York Times is satisfied that something has got to be done if New York is carried for Grant. Precisely our impression.

The Springfield Republican says Greeley will carry Boston by a large majority, and that city will also elect two Liberal Members of Congress.

The man who manufactures the reports for the Grant cohorts in this county is to have his salary raised. He says he's too hard worked.

The Press tries to make out that Wm. H. DeGarmo is after the Treasurership, which is all gammon. A few weeks ago it swore he was a Grant man.

With all deference to what nature has done for him in that direction, we may say that Boutwell is making as much of a fool of himself in Maine as he did in North Carolina.

What a beautiful lot of names is this campaign giving birth to! The Clayton wing in Arkansas are called "The Minstrels," and down in Louisiana there is a Pinchback party.

One of our readers complains that the weather report published Friday morning told a falsehood, as it promised clear weather. He must remember that these reports come from the War Department. A change of administration might remedy the fault of which he complains.

The Hon. Milo Goodrich is out in a letter, addressed to Thomas Murphy, refussing to retract his assertion that the President's Long Branch cottage was paid for by subscription. He affirms A. T. Stewart was asked to contribute $5,000, and refused. He further alleges the money was given to Grant and hence he paid for it himself.

Twenty bags of franked mail matter is daily sent from the Grant Republican Committee rooms, on which the legal postage is $3,000 daily, or $100,000 per month. The government is thus cheated out of this amount of postage, besides the time of the clerks. The entire Senate wing is devoted to the work of the Grant committee.

The Gazette says: A good story is told by one of the Little Falls visitors to Utica last week, during the President's visit. When the latter arrived in the city a number of persons endeavored, of course, to shake hands with the illustrious guest of Senator Conkling.—Among them was a little boot-black, shrewd and sharp, who, while grasping the President's hand, said in a style peculiar to his profession —"Ill bet you a sixpence, Mr. Grant, that you won't be elected."

Delays in Building the New State Capitol.

The Albany Express says, editorially: For several years the people of this State have patiently viewed the progress made on the new capitol building in course of erection in rear of the old one. Year after year, the Legislature has appropriated moneys, aggregating the sum of about $4,000,000, and what is there to show for it? Beyond the foundation, several courses of stone over the "water shed," as it is termed, is all we see, while it should be reasonably expected—allowing a liberal margin for delays always incidental to such great works—that by the first of September, 1872, the first story and a portion of the second one should be erected. No complaint can be made by those entrusted with the direction of affairs, that they have been stinted in money or hampered by legislation, for democrats as well as republicans have always shown a liberal spirit with respect to this building, which, when completed, will be, if the original plans are adhered to, one of the grandest buildings in the world, and one of the glories of the State. While no voice can justly be raised to attack the capital commissioners on the score of extravagance or misappropriation of funds—the investigation of last winter fully establishing the honesty with which the funds are expended—the time has certainly arrived for a strict inquiry into the cause which has led to the many delays in prosecuting the work of erection. It does seem as though the Genii of the New York court-house had put a spell on the whole concern, with the determination to have it an uncompleted work, like the great Cathedral of Cologne. Among the excuses put forth first was lack of material, then the granite was "too hard," again "too soft," the workmen struck at different times, brick was lacking, but at no time has any allegation been made that a competent working force could not be obtained to prepare and place the granite, brick, etc., into position. A large number of mechanics have been induced to settle in Albany—many of them moving their families and household goods, at great expense, from other places, in order to work on the capitol—and the working force, which should be counted among the thousands, dwindles down among the hundreds, from lack of materials to work with. There remains in the treasury to the credit of the commissioners $1,000,000, and these mechanics are thrown out of employment. There is mismanagement somewhere in regard to this business, and we have a suspicion that it is a division of sentiment among the commissioners. The many deaths of those engaged in the business of legislation last winter, caused by the foul air of the badly ventilated chambers and committee rooms of the old capitol, is a warning to expedite the erection of the new one.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

It cost Chicago half a million to restore her fire department.

White velvet wheat yields forty bushels to the acre in Oregon.

Chief-Justice Chase's friends talk of sueing for libel those who circulate the story of his being fatally ill.

Peaches are coming into New York in the liveliest manner. 134,000 baskets arrived by one railroad on Wednesday.

Word comes from Red Bird, Ill., that while Warner & Co.'s menagerie was exhibiting at that place on the 16th, a rhinoceros got loose and killed three men, wounded several more, besides upsetting things generally. It finally made its way into a vacant house near by, where it was secured.

The New Yorkers are going forward with street widening, dock building and street grading, with Tom Murphy and Jimmy O'Brien to run the machine. They have spent $27,000,000 in six months. That is the reform the Times lauds and Loughran don't like. Old Tweed will soon be outdone.

South Pacific dates are to the 28th ult. On the 22d a revolution broke out in Lima headed by Thomas Gutierrez, minister of war. President Balta was seized and thrown into prison, and Gutierrez declared himself Dictator.

He was supported only by the army. A reign of terror followed the imprisonment of Balta. Pardo, President elect, escaped in the fleet. Suddenly the troops deserted Gutierrez, company after company, with vivas for Pardo. Callao up to the morning of the 27th was a scene of anarchy. Firing went on indiscriminately in the streets, and it is impossible to estimate the number killed. Some of the bodies still lie on the streets.

Sylvester Gutierrez, brother of the Dictator, was shot at the Lima railroad station the 27th. In the evening, in order to avenge his death, Marcelino Gutierrez, another brother, deliberately shot and killed President Balta in his bed in prison.

The ex-President received ten wounds. Soon after this Thomas Gutierrez himself and another brother were killed, and the dead bodies of the three Gutierrez' hung in the Plaza at Lima. Immediately on the receipt of the news of the murder of Balta, the steamer Limena left at midnight to look for the fleet which had sailed for Callao on the declaration of the dictatorship. The Limena returned about 1 o'clock the 27th, followed by the Peruvian iron clad, Independensia, with Pardo on board. He was received with rapturous cheers by the people.

PRESIDENT GRANT TO THE MAYOR OF CHATTANOOGA.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Aug. 18.

The President has addressed the following letter to J. J. Bryon, Mayor of Chattanooga.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, D. C. Aug. 18, 1872.

SIR:—I received the kind invitation of the Mayor and Aldermen and the board of trade of the city of Chattanooga, for myself and Cabinet to visit your city and Lookout Mountain some time during the present summer. I have delayed a final answer to thi invitation in order to consult with the Cabinet on the subject. I am compelled most reluctantly after this consultation, to inform you that it is not practicable for us to accept the invitation. I assure you and the gentlemen to whom we are indebted for the invitation, that I on my part highly appreciate the compliment, doubly, because it is independent of policy or party predilections at a time too when party feeling runs high. I should enjoy a trip to Chattanooga, and particularly so at the request of citizens without respect to party. My desire is to see harmony, concord and prosperity exist everywhere in our common country. With renewed assurances of my appreciation of the invitation to visit your city, and with my best wishes for its future prosperity, I subscribe myself very respectfully your obedient servant,

HORRIBLE MASSACRE.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. Aug. 18.

Later advices from Bradby's Landing are, that soon after the tug Helen arrived there with a trading boat, James Trumbull went on board, and being drunk commenced trifling with the machinery. Captain Pott ordered him to desist, to which Trumbull replied with opprobrious epithets and threatened to throw Pott overboard. Pott took up a shot gun and ordered him off the boat. Trumbull went before Squire Walt and swore out a warrant accusing Pott of retailing segars without a license, upon which the latter was arrested by a colored constable and taken before the magistrate. His wife leaving her infant with two women on the boat, accompanied him.

After waiting until nearly dark Pott's brother fearing trouble, took the boat over to Island No. 40, and made fast to the shore. That night Downing, the colored constable, Trumbull and a man called Hans took a skiff, pressed two negroes into their service, and ordered them to row across and land above the steamer, which was done. Ches, one of the negroes, says that on landing, Downing and party ordered them to remain quiet under penalty of death. Downing and party then crept cautiously towards the boat, which they boarded, and soon after a loud cry was heard, then several shots in quick succession. Ches then saw them pursuing Captain Pott's brother who had jumped ashore, and were firing on him.—Whether he was killed or not he does not know. Pott was the only one seen by Ches; and he thinks two other men, one of whom was named Robinson, two women and three children were killed and thrown overboard. When Ches and his partner were called to the boat they saw no one but Downing, Trumbull and Hans, who broke into the bar, and the entire party got drunk. Ches remembers nothsng more until the boat was boarded by the fisherman as stated last night, when he jumped ashore and made his way back to Bradby's where the wildest excitement prevailed, as nothing had been seen of Pott or his party, while Downing and his party had disappeared; and from the fact that the boat had been plundered it is feared the whole party have been murdered.

JUDGE BARNARD PRONOUNCED GUILTY.

NEW YORK, August 18.

A Troy paper states that the court of impeachment has pronounced Judge Barnard guilty of a violation of his oath of office, of being unmindful of the duties of his office, of being guilty of mal and corrupt conduct in his office, on nearly all the articles voted upon, thirty-one in number. Only 7 articles are to be voted upon Monday.

A NEGRO CUTS THE THROAT OF HIS EMPLOYER.

NASHVILLE, TENN., August 18.

A negro named Wade partially cut the throat of his employer while asleep, on the night of the tenth, and crushed the skull of Mr. Shelby who attempted to arrest him. He was taken from the officer who captured him, hung to a tree and riddled with bullets by a party of men the next night.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.

The Secretary of the mixed commission says the recent newspaper statement of the amount of claims by British subjects against America was entirely erroneous, and of twenty cases disposed of, less than three per cent of the amount claimed was awarded. A large number of cases are ready for the September session of the commissioners.

GENERAL NEWS

Chicago has four Grant democrats, all owing to the influence of the Chicago Times.

The postmaster at Corning, N. Y., has been removed for supporting Greeley. That is Grant reform.

It was two days before a Traverse City, Mich., lady could shut her mouth after a violent yawn.

A petrified buffalo, full size, standing and in the act of eating, has been found near Spinneyville, Iowa.

Some one said to Mrs. Siddons that applause seemed necessary to give them confidence.—"More," she replied; "it gives us breath."

An interior Grant organ is still abusing Tweed as a supporter of Greeley. The poor fellow has not yet heard that Tweed is for Grant.

The Boston Traveller accuses General Banks of wanting to ride the popular wave in going for Greeley. That is pretty fair for a Grant organ.

The Trenton Gazette, Republican authority, says "that the Greeley men in New Jersey outnumber the potato bugs, and potato bugs are thick."

Last fall when Thomas G. Alvord was elected to the assembly, the result was heralded by the Grant journals as as a great victory for reform. Alvord supports Greeley, and he is now being denounced as terribly corrupt.

The demand for tobacco stamps, particularly for ten-pound packages, received daily at the Internal Revenue Bureau, is unprecedented. A larger amount has been sent off in the last month than for the previous six months.

White Berlin gloves and campaign hats having been added to the uniform of enlisted men of the army. The Secretary of War has ordered that the yearly allowance of those articles to each soldier shall be eight pairs of gloves and one campaign hat.

The tax on compounded spirits, which includes every description of bogus champagne and other so-called wines, went into effect on the 1st instant, and the internal Revenue officers have directions to see that the manufactures of Jersey cider, champagne, &c., shall not evade the provisions of the law.

WOMAN.

By an immense practice, extending through a period of years, having within that time treated many thousand cases of those diseases peculiar to woman, I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and agreeable medicine that meets the indications presented by that class of diseases with positive certainty and exactness.

To designate this natural specific compound, I have named it

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The term, however, is but a feeble expression of my most matured appreciation of its value, based upon actual and witnessed realities. As a close observer, I have while witnessing its positive results in the few special diseases incident to the separate organism of woman, singled it out as the climax or crowning gem of my medical career. On its merits as a positive, safe, and effectual remedy for this class of diseases, and one that will at all times and under all circumstances act kindly and in harmony with the laws which govern the female system, I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician. Nay, even more, so confident am I that it will not disappoint the most sanguine expectations of a single invalid lady who employs it for any of the ailments for which I recommend it, that I offer and sell it under A POSITIVE GUARANTEE. If a beneficial effect is not experienced by the time two-thirds of the contents of the bottle are used, I will, on return of the bottle, two-thirds of the medicine having been taken according to directions, and the case being one for which I recommend it, promptly refund the money paid for it. Had I not the most perfect confidence in its virtues, I could not offer it as I do under these conditions; but having witnessed its truly miraculous cures in thousands of cases, I feel warranted and perfectly safe in risking both my reputation and my money on its merits.

The following are among those diseases in which my Favorite Prescription has worked cures—as if by magic and with a certainty never before attained by any medicine: Leucorrhea, Excessive Flowing, Painful Monthly Periods, Suppressions when from unnatural causes, Irregularities, Weak Back, Prolapsus, or falling of the Uterus, Anteversion and Retroversion, Bearing Down Sensations, Internal Heat, Nervous Depression, Debility, Despondency, Threatened Miscarriage, Chronic Congestion, Inflammation and Ulceration of the Uterus, Impotency, Barrenness, or Sterility, Female Weakness, and very many other chronic diseases incident to woman not mentioned here, in which, as well as in the cases which I have mentioned, my Favorite Prescription works cures—the marvel of the world. This medicine I do not extol as a cure-all, but it admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most perfect specific in all chronic diseases of the sexual system of woman. It will not disappoint, nor will it do harm in any state or condition. It will be found invaluable in diseases incident to pregnancy, and can be taken in moderate doses with perfect safety while in that state. Indeed, it is a Mother's Cordial, and so prepares the system for parturition that it renders child-labor easy. I have received the heartfelt praise from hundreds of mothers for the inestimable benefits thus conferred.

I offer my Favorite Prescription to the Ladies of America with the sincerity of an honest heart, and for their best welfare. Those who desire further information on these subjects can obtain it in my TREATISE ON CHRONIC DISEASES OF THE GENERATIVE AND URINARY ORGANS, sent secure from observation upon receipt of two postage stamps. It treats minutely on those diseases peculiar to Females, and gives much valuable advice in regard to their management.

DR. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION IS SOLD BY ALL FIRST CLASS DRUGGISTS, at $1.50 per bottle.

☞ All communications must be addressed to the Chairman.

To Printers.

Wanted at this office, a person competent to run a Hoe single cylinder Press. Address stating experience and wages expected, to Henry Bolton, Foreman, at this office.

Cheap as Dirt.

People can have use of the Literary Association Library, upper Kingston, for one dollar per year.

Coal Arrival.

On Saturday 53 canal boats laden with 6,693 tons of coal reached tide water at Eddyville through the Delaware and Hudson canal.

Difference.

The New York dailies cost delivered in this city $15.60 per annum. The DAILY FREEMAN, five and a half hours earlier, costs $8 delivered.

Removed.

The library of the Kingston Literary Association has been removed to the new office of Durham and Van Wagonen, next door to the County Treasurer's office.

Didn't Borrow it.

There is a young gentlemen in upper Kingston, who has lately been presented with a fine imported English umbrella. He is so proud of this specimen of foreign nobility, that when it rains he carries it carefully under his coat.

Drunk and Disorderly.

John Roseman, a whiskey-soaked individual who claims a residence in Dutchess county, waxed very disorderly in Garden street on Friday evening, and interfered with the workmen engaged on Jansen Hasbrouck's new building, until officer Daly appeared on the scene and escorted the worshipper at the shrine of Bacchus to the lock-up.

Some Boy.

Cornwall boasts of a boy only about thirteen years of age, who turns the scales at one hundred and sixty-five pounds. Who beats that?—Newburgh Telegraph.

Well, that is some boy, but this city boasts of a girl who turns the scales at one hundred and seventy-two pounds and all the boys' heads from thirteen to thirty years of age.

Personal Odors.

Many persons and particularly ladies are afflicted with a peculiar pungent odor which arises from the secretions of certain glands situated in various parts of the body, especially under the arms. This secretion is most abundant in warm weather. We know that we shall confer a great favor by giving a simple and certain remedy, which is, to bathe the parts in cider vinegar once a day or oftener, if desirable.

To Our Readers.

Having enlarged the DAILY FREEMAN, we now propose to publish on the fourth page for the benefit of our Agricultural and Horticultural readers, at least two columns twice a week for their special benefit. We shall give them the best matter that can be gleaned from our best agricultural journals, together with a good supply of original matter from our contributors and correspondents.

Correction.

In the article by Dr. Loughran, Health officer of this city, there were two typographical errors, which, as the subject is of considerable importance, we correct. The line, "the second resolution implies a want of the simplest sanitary law," etc., should read, "the second resolution implies a want of knowledge of the simplest sanitary law," etc. The line—"there does not exist to exceed two cases of small-pox or varioloid," should read, "there does not exist to exceed two cases of small-pox and two cases of varioloid."

Mock Trials.

The young law students of upper Kingston, in order to occupy their leisure hours this hot weather, have improvised some imaginary law-suits. The pleadings in these cases are the most remarkable specimens of diffusive literature in existence probably. One of the Academy Alumni is the jury, while another able gentleman from the Academical department is in the dignified position of judge. The counsel are numerous, and their speeches surpass many it has been our lot to hear in the Ulster County Court room. The practice is excellent.

Likely to Recover.

We learn from one of the physicians in attendance on Mr. Thomas Chambers, the man who was so severely injured by being thrown from the rear platform of one of the cars on the N. Y., K. & S. Railroad on Thursday afternoon, that the probabilities on Saturday were that he would recover. On that day he was removed from the house of Mr. Mills in Wiltwyck to his home at West Hurley, the Railroad company furnishing a special car for the purpose, which it was under no obligations to do, as the man received his injuries while acting in direct opposition to the contract entered into between the company and every passenger that is carried over the road, namely, riding on the platform of a car.

Phlebotomy.

Our new city seems to be particularly troubled this season with those pests of midsummer nights, "mosquitoes." Old residents say they have never known the little pests to be so numerous or unruly. The most sacred precincts are invaded by them, and in maiden's sweet-scented boudoir and the workman's humble sleeping apartment alike is heard the slap of indignant seekers after "nature's sweet restorer, balmy sleep." There is no satisfaction in fighting mosquitoes. You may get up armed and equipped with a towel in one hand, slipper in the other, light the gas and sail in for a grand crusade; you may slap, and knock and slash around generally until every one of them has disappeared, leaving, as you fondly hope, the room untainted by their foul presence, then return to woo Morpheus in the calm hope of a peaceful night; but hardly have you laid your head to rest when, as if coming from the tiny throats of fairies aw-a-a-y off, you will hear the shrill pipe of the unmistakable mosquito. You try a new dodge this time; you think you'll let him light upon your face and when he gets his proboscis firmly fixed in your epidermis with one fell swoop you'll send him to "kingdom come." It's a pleasant anticipation and very amusing until you make your swoop only to grind your teeth in impotent rage as you hear the pesky thing directly above you about five feet off singing his refrain as if in derision, and which you can easily imagine intonated as follows: "Shoo fly, don't bodder me."—You give it up then probably, and resolutely closing your ears, go to sleep anyway, with a mental "Darn the skeeters!" And every night brings a repetition of the experience.

CITY NOTES.

The "last rose of summer" is now in bloom.

The handsomest young lady in this city is a Jewess.

These are melon-colic days for most people, but not melancholy for the doctors.

The walls of the handsome new parsonage for St. Peter's church are up and the roof is now being put on.

Mayor Turck, of Dubuque, at present stopping in this city, agrees with our Mayor exactly. They are both strong Greeley men.

The N. Y. K. & S. R. R. company is putting up a new lot of telegraph posts. They are heavier than the old ones, and will carry three wires.

The youthful fruit stealers with which this place abounds are up to their annual tricks. A well-trained dog is the best fruit preserver.

The word on board all sailing vessels in the creek on Saturday morning when the sun burst through the clouds was, "call all hands loose sails to dry."

Croquet seems to be on the wane hereabouts. But few door-yards, compared with last year's statistics, are to be seen decorated with this first-class aid to flirtations.

Between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock on Saturday the atmosphere was so clear that by the aid of a field glass, people could be seen on the piazza of the Overlook Hotel from the Weinberg.

Masonic Funeral.

On Sunday about 11 o'clock a number of the members of the Masonic Lodge No. 10, F. A. M. of Kingston, came to the eastern district of this city in a street car chartered for the occasion, for the purpose of embarking on board the steamer John Dillon to proceed to Newburgh to attend the funeral of their deceased brother, Henry Uptegrove, who died in that city on Friday last. The party left this city about 12 o'clock and the funeral ceremonies, according to the rites of the order of Free Masons, took place at 4 P. M., at the conclusion of which the Masons from this place started on their return. Mr. Uptegrove was formerly a resident of Kingston, where he was engaged in business as a stone cutter and by his urbanity and fair dealing had made hosts of friends. The deceased gentleman leaves a wife and several children in affluent circumstances.

A Word to Parents.

If parents in this city would keep an open eye to the manner in which their children spend their evenings, they would doubtless be surprised to find that their boys and girls are in the habit of perambulating the streets, not only in the evening, but at a late hour of the night. No good can result from this practice and if mothers desire to save their daughters from a life of crime and shame they should keep a stricter surveillance over them. Every night scores of young girls can be seen parading our streets, and this is so constant that their faces have become as well known as those of larger growth, whose brazen countenances show that all sense of modesty and shame is lost. Let mothers who are interested in the present and future welfare of their daughters and sons ascertain how and where their evenings, are spent, for "as the twig is bent the tree will incline."

Religious.

Sunday last was the fifth anniversary of the day on which Rev. E. D. Ledyard, of the Rondout Presbyterian church, entered upon his pastorate, and the reverend gentleman embraced the occasion in his morning sermon to make a brief review of the work done by the church during that period. He stated that during the five years 133 persons had joined the communion of the church; there had been 15 deaths, and 18 dismissals to other congregations. There had been raised for various religious and benevolent objects $7,186, and for congregational expenses $12,917, a total of $20,103. The preacher gave other very interesting information as to missionary and other work carried on by the church, and spoke urgently in favor of pushing forward the new church edifice project.

The above amount of money raised does not include over $3,000 in the hands of the Ladies' Aid Society, which they have raised by festivals, sociables, etc.

To Subscribers.

Occasionally we have complaints from subscribers to the DAILY FREEMAN who receive their papers by carrier, that they do not receive them regularly. Sometimes this is the fault of the carrier, but more frequently, we think, the papers are taken away by other persons. A gentleman told us the other day that he saw a woman go to a store where the paper had been left in the door, as requested, pick it up, and walk off with it. He stopped her and made her return the paper. From her reputation he does not doubt that she has done the same thing before. Of course, this will account for occasional mysterious disappearances of the paper. Subscribers can guard against these petty thieves by having secure places for the carrier to drop their paper in.—We would esteem it a special favor if those of our subscribers who have neighbors who have recently stopped THE FREEMAN, would firmly refuse to lend their papers, as we have been apprised by a number they are regularly called upon to do.

Appointment of R. R. Commissioner.

Amasa Humphrey, one of the R. & O. R. R. Commissioners for the City of Kingston, resigned last week. His Honor, Judge Lawton, has appointed Hiram Schoonmaker to fill the vacancy. The Board of Commissioners is now composed of Michael J. Madden, C. D. Bruyn and Hiram Schoonmaker. Under the division of the stock by reason of the erection of the City of Kingston, these Commissioners have the charge of $507,600 of the stock, the Commissioners for the new town of Kingston voting for the remainder, $92,400. This year, however, by reason of delay in dividing the stock the transfer had not been made prior to the date fixed by the railroad for the close of the transfer books. It is generally understood that the Commissioners Bruyn, Madden and Schoonmaker will have the vote upon the entire amount of stock. The resignation of Mr. Humphrey created a flutter among the railroad men, but whether there is any occasion for excitement can only be judged by subsequent events.

A Ball on Fire.

Probably the hottest game of billiards ever known was played at the Webster House, upper Kingston, on Saturday night. Two amateurs held the cues. One of them struck the ball he was playing with, which actually took fire and burned as it rolled around the table. A large number of spectators were present, who were astonished at the sight and imagined Plantamour's comet had descended sure, the tail of which had alighted on the ball. The Joker was seated near the table, and was so struck he was riveted to his chair and couldn't move for several minutes. Some one however, who had more presence of mind than the others, knocked the ball off the table, when the fire was extinguished. These balls are made of compressed paper and gun cotton and the fire was no doubt caused by the excessive friction. Many, however, have not yet recovered from the fright, and verily believe the infernal had a hand in it. The table is burned all along the path of the burning ball, and Sam says he don't want any more comet tails on his tables.

The Westchester County Agricultural Society have offered four premiums for the best specimens of penmanship, by pupils in the public schools.

Drowned.

For a number of years past there has resided in this city and its immediate vicinity a queer character familiarly known as "Yankee," but whose real name was Isaac Northrup. In his earlier years Yankee had been a sailor, but how he came to drift so far away from salt water as this is not known. He eked out a precarious subsistence by trading, in a small way, in old junk, picking up the ice which dropped overboard from ice barges lading at the ice houses, cutting out small vessels from bits of wood and rigging them as ships, barks and brigs, in a rude manner, and selling these things to whoever would buy, and for any price. Yankee owned a small boat, more or less dilapidated, in which most of his time was passed, and in the decorations of which the sailor's love for his craft cropped out. Whenever a brush of any colored paint could be obtained Yankee would immediately apply it to some part of his boat, and motley was the display of flags which fluttered from poles and sticks stuck up from the sides and ends of his boat. Like most sailors Yankee had a fondness for keeping the main brace well spliced, and he frequently put so many splices in it during the course of the day that harmonious progression was materially interfered with, and the old chap had often been told he would "tip the rosey" once too often and fall overboard and drown; and so it happened on Saturday forenoon about 10 o'clock. Yankee had hitched his boat to the stern of the tug-boat Sandy and was towed out the creek, when near the lighthouse he was seen to fall overboard; the Sandy was stopped, then backed up to where the unfortunate man was struggling in the water, but just before the spot was reached Yankee sank never to rise alive again. In his boat was found a bottle about half filled with liquor, which was doubtless the primary cause of his death. Yankee left a wife and family who will probably be as well provided with this world's goods now that he is gone as they were before, for although he was a simple hearted inoffensive man he could not in the wildest flight of fancy be called "a good provider."

A son of James Duffy, of Eddyville, accidentally fell in the guard lock at that place on Sunday forenoon, and before he could be rescued was drowned.

On the War Path.

Mary Rafter, the champion of Stony Hollow, has again taken the offensive. She has taken out a warrant for the arrest of Patrick Hylan, a youth about 11 years of age, complaining that said youth had threatened to take her life. Justice O'Connor issued the warrant.

A New Boarding House.

A large and commodious boarding house is about to be erected in Shandaken village for the accommodation of city boarders. The prices are to be put down at a reasonable figure, so all classes, poor as well as rich, can enjoy themselves a week or two in the mountains during the heated term.

Amusements at the Overlook.

It must be pleasant on the Overlook in rainy weather. For several days it has been so thick with fog that the visitors standing in the doorway couldn't see the pillars of the piazza. The boarders enjoy themselves such weather in what we would call a run around, keeping time to the music of the band.

Strikers Struck at High Falls.

On Friday, the 16th inst., when the one o'clock bell of the Delafield & Baxter Cement Co. rang for the men to commence work, some of the hands in their mill refused to go to work. No reason was assigned for this, but it was understood these men felt they did not receive compensation in proportion to others in the employ of the same company. The case was duly reported to Agent Benton, who ordered that the mill be shut down, and immediately put in his appearance, watch in hand, saying—"I give you who propose to stop this mill just two minutes to resume work." A conference was about being held when Mr. B. said "time's up! all connected with this little strike step to the office and get their money." Five men went out and took their wages, receiving at the same time instructions never to show their faces around that mill again. Before ten minutes to one o'clock the mill gates were hoisted, and men from the quarries were sent for to carry on the work, and cement was being ground as usual. Thus commenced and ended the only strike of the season at High Falls.

Teachers' Institute.

THURSDAY, Aug. 15, 1872.

MORNING SESSION.

After singing, the devotional exercises were led by Commissioner Van Santvoord. Prof. Barker continued his lectures on Mental Science, in which he spoke of cultivating the memory. Prof. Jelliffe conducted an exercise in reading in which he dwelt on the subject of Articulation. Prof. Barker next conducted a class exercise in which he divided off the Institute into sections and had different members show how they conducted reading classes. He next gave a lesson in teaching History of the United States, showing how it can become successful in our schools. After short sublectures by P. J. Smith and A. E. Schepmoes, the morning session closed.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Prof. Barker resumed his method of teaching Geography, describing New York State; after which Prof. Jelliffe took up the subject of Arithmetic, treating on fractions. Next Prof. Barker went on with his instructions in Grammatical Analysis; and this was followed with another lesson in Penmanship by Prof. Jelliffe. Some time was spent in general exercises, in which a number of questions were proposed; and the session was concluded with a Spelling exercise, in which the members were called on to give a number of words of one syllable, in general use, and which are frequently misspelled.

At the evening session the time was spent in giving select readings by the Professor and A. E. Schepmoes. The queries proposed in the afternoon were answered at the opening of the evening session.

Wesley Grove Camp Meeting.

WESLEY GROVE, August 15.—Among the clerical arrivals here this morning were Rev. Dr. Wakeley, Presiding Elder of the District, Rev. John H. Castle, D. D., a Baptist clergyman of Philadelphia, formerly pastor of the First Baptist Church of Newburgh, Rev. A. H. Ferguson, of Saugerties, Rev. C. W. Millard, of Chester, Rev. W. Goss, of New Windsor, Rev. Mr. Clark of New Jersey, Rev. J. G. Shrive, of Crawford, Rev. D. McCartney, of Walden, Rev. Philip R. Hoyt, and others.—Dr. Wakeley had been suffering from an affection of the eyes, and was unable to reach the grove before this, the second day of the meeting. The Doctor has visited many camp grounds, and his opinion is therefore of some weight when he says that Wesley Grove is inferior to none of them in beauty and convenience of location, etc. He has assumed the charge of the meeting, his arrival taking a load of anxiety from the minds of those in charge of the temporalities. Nobody can fill the Doctor's place so well as himself. Dr. Castle visited the camp in company with Mr. Henry Garrison, of Newburgh, and was warmly welcomed by his brother clergymen of a different denomination.

The sermon this morning was preached by Rev. J. Y. Bates, of Rondout. His text was Isaiah xi, 31: "But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint." The lion had been called the king of beasts, and the eagle the king of the air. The eagle had been used as a national ensign by the Persians, subsequently by the Romans and in modern times by several nations. Various Scriptural allusions to the bird were still more significant. References were made to the swiftness of its flight, its building its nest in high and unaccessible places, etc. In the text it had been supposed there was an allusion to an old superstition that the eagle once in ten years ascended to near the sun, then descended into the sea and changed its feathers, at the same time renewing its strength.

To "wait upon the Lord" was our reasonable service. How it could be done acceptably ought to be our constant inquiry. The duty that was enjoined was a constant one and should be a life service. The following propositions were considered: God's people should wait on Him as the pupil waits upon the teacher, for instruction; as the soldier waits upon the commander, for orders; as the criminal waits upon the Governor, for pardon; to wait upon God with the abiding confidence that all God does right; to wait upon God confidingly, expecting that all His promises may be "yea and amen."

The promise that such as wait upon the Lord should renew their strength was then considered. One of the peculiarities of the christian religion was that it talked of strength more than of happiness. The habits of the eagle were referred to and comparisons drawn with the subject in hand. Appropriate lessons were drawn from them. The source of the christian's strength lay not in his social position, not in his intellectual ability, nor his wealth, but in communing with God in the waiting upon the Lord.—Newburgh Journal.

Sloop Sunk.

While the up river screw freight and passenger steamer Andrew Harder was passing Cruger's Island on Friday night, she collided with a sloop, name unknown, and sunk her immediately. No lives were lost, and the Harder, not being materially damaged, continued on her passage.

Old Horse.

A Columbia paper says: The pacing horse Columbus, 38 years of age, has been sold to Charles H. Thompson of Esopus. The animal is well known among the sporting men of Long Island as well as Ulster county, and is now being trained for another race, having already been matched for that purpose. Columbus was formerly owned by Dr. S. Schoonmaker of Rosendale.

Losing their Farms.

By a recent decision of the Court of Appeals, several of the most prosperous farmers in Egypt, Sullivan county, will lose their farms, which they have not only bought and paid for, but occupied for years. It seems the lands were sold for taxes many years ago to a man named Denning, from whom the present occupants acquired their titles. It turns out, however, that owing to some neglect on the part of the officials, the tax sale was not legal, and as Mr. Denning died insolvent, the men who bought the farms will probably be "euchred" out of everything.

Too True

The Fishkill Standard, a neutral paper, has the following:

The Rev. Henry Highland Garnett was advertised to speak before the U. L. A. Society of colored people on Wednesday evening, at Swift's Hall. The Rev. gentleman appeared, but the audience did not. The managers are supposed to be Grant men, as it is a Republican association, and they ought to have patronized the institution. Out of thirty-nine tickets sold, I am informed that thirty-five were purchased by Greeley men. The chief officer of the society says if it had been a Greeley institution the Hall would have been packed, and that if that is the way the Republicans show their affection for the black man, "not any for him." It is characteristic of the party to sympathize with the negro, but when it comes to actual assistance, as the darkey says, "it aint thar."

VICINITY.

A showman, calling himself Prof. Heller, is posted by the Poughkeepsie papers as a fraud.

Kelly, of John Robinson's circus, leaped over twenty-two horses, while the company was performing at Albany.

A camp meeting for the Prattsville District will be held near Windham Center, commencing August 26th, and continuing for the week.

At Troy, the other day, a family was broken up by the father and mother being sent to the penitentiary for three months, and three children to the poor-house.

The Hudson coroner gently insinuates that he has a twenty inch cucumber, and would like to see the man that dare eat it. Any way to make an honest penny.

The recent Albany printers' excursion is styled by the press of that city as the most rowdyish, drunken affair that has occurred on the Hudson is some time.

The Fishkill youth amuse themselves these hot nights by confining two hostile dogs under a large dry goods box. The result is generally that which followed the Kilkenny cat fight.

A Case of Cholera.

The Red Hook Journal says a woman named Reynolds at Staatsburgh, was taken with cholera on Tuesday, and died the same day.

We do not believe she died from cholera.

Assessors' Report.

STATE OF NEW YORK, } ss.
COUNTY OF ULSTER. }

We, Daniel Johnston, William J. Turck and Augustus Schepmoes, constituting the Board of Assessors of the city of Kingston, which are the first incumbents after the passage of the act, entitled "An act to incorporate the city of Kingston," passed March 29th, 1872, and we, Jacob Brink, Benjamin D. Souser and Charles Schumann, constituting the Board of Assessors of the town of Kingston, which are the first incumbents after the passage of said act, do hereby certify and report: that having first taken and filed with the Clerk of Ulster County, an oath honestly, impartially and faithfully to perform our duties under section one hundred and twenty-five of said act, we did as soon as might be after the passage of said act and the organization of said city, ascertain from the assessment roll of the town of Kingston, for the year eighteen hundred and seventy one, the total assessed valuation of all the real and personal property in said town of Kingston, and the assessed valuation of all the real and personal property within the limits of the city of Kingston, as defined by said act, and the proportion of said city valuation, to the said town valuation.

That we also ascertained the total bonded debt of said town as it existed at the time of the passage of said act, and the amount thereof bearing the same proportion to the whole bonded debt of said town, as the said city valuation bears to the said town valuation, and by that standard ascertained and determined the amount of said bonded debt for which the said city shall be liable, and also the number of shares in the capital stock of the Rondout and Oswego Rail Road Company, and also separately the number of shares in the capital stock of the Wallkill Valley Railway Company, to which the said city shall be entitled. And that we also by the same standard, ascertained and determined the amount of said bonded debt for which the said town as it exists after the said act has taken effect, shall be liable, and also the number of shares in the capital stock of the Rondout and Oswego Rail Road Company, and also separately the number of shares in the capital stock of the Wallkill Valley Railway Company, to which said town shall be entitled.

And we further report that our determination made as aforesaid, and the facts upon which the same is based, ascertained as aforesaid, are as follows, to-wit:

The total assessed valuation of all the real and personal property in said town of Kingston as it existed in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy one, as ascertained from the Assessment Roll of said town for said year, was four million two thousand two hundred and fifty dollars ($4,002,250). And the assessed valuation of all the real and personal property within the limits of the city of Kingston as defined by said act, as ascertained from said assessment roll, is three million three hundred and eighty five thousand nine hundred and four dollars ($3,385,904.) And the proportion (or ratio) of said city valuation to the said town valuation, is that which the latter of said sums bears to the former.

The assessed valuation of all the real and personal property in the town of Kingston as it now exists, as ascertained from said assessment roll, is six hundred and sixteen thousand three hundred and forty six dollars ($616,346). The total amount of said bonded debt of said town as it existed at the time of the passage of said act was seven hundred and seventy thousand dollars ($770,000), of which five hundred and seventy thousand dollars ($570,000), consisted of bonds issued in aid of the Rondout & Oswego Rail Road Company, and two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000) consisted of bonds issued in aid of the Wallkill Valley Railway Company. The amount of said bonded debt for which the said city shall be liable is six hundred and fifty one thousand four hundred and twenty dollars ($651,420) of which four hundred and eighty two thousand two hundred and twenty dollars ($482,220) consists of bonds issued in aid of the Rondout & Oswego Rail Road Company, and one hundred and sixty nine thousand two hundred dollars ($169,200) consists of bonds issued in aid of the Wallkill Valley Railway Company.

The amount of said bonded debt for which the said town as it now exists shall be liable, is one hundred and eighteen thousand five hundred and eighty dollars ($118,580) of which eighty seven thousand seven hundred and eighty dollars ($87,780) consists of bonds issued in aid of the Rondout and Oswego Rail Road Company, and thirty thousand eight hundred dollars ($30,800) consists of bonds issued in aid of the Wallkill Valley Railway Company.

The number of shares in the capital stock of the Rondout & Oswego Rail Road Company (the corporate name of which is now changed to the New York, Kingston & Syracuse Rail Road Company) to which the said city shall be entitled is five thousand and seventy six (5076), the said shares being one hundred dollars each.

The number of shares in the Capital stock of the Wallkill Valley Railway Company to which the said city shall be entitled is three thousand three hundred and eighty-four (3384), the said shares being fifty dollars each.

The number of shares in the capital stock of the Rondout and Oswego Railroad Company (the corporate name of which is changed as aforesaid) to which the said town as it now exists shall be entitled is nine hundred and twenty-four (924) the said shares being one hundred dollars each.

The number of shares in the capital stock of the Wallkill Valley Railway Company to which the said town as it now exists shall be entitled is six hundred and sixteen (616) the said shares being fifty dollars each.

Dated August 13, 1872.

CORNS are as useless to the community as mischief-making old maids, corner loafers in large cities, or dishonest politicians, no more of a luxury than epsom salts or castor oil, and no more desirable for comfort than a hedge hog is for a parlor ornament. Deyo and others.

LISTEN. What do you hear? A cough?—What does it indicate? Perhaps a tickle in the throat; perhaps bronchitis; it may be a recent cold; it may be an effort of nature to clear the bronchia; it may be the deep hollow cough, boon companion of that terrible monster consumption.—In either case the free use of Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer, as directed, will banish all kinds of Cough, cure Bronchitis certain, and all the early symptoms of Consumption. Sold by Van Deusen Brothers, R. Deyo and others.

Sold by Van Deusen Bros., R. Deyo and others.

CORNS Let them ache, cut your boots, curse them and make up your mind that you can endure their torments as long as they can torment you, but take the advice of an old chap who has tried it, but got worsted by the corns. They are worse than a coon in a barrel; never surrender, but fight it out on that line summer and winter. Corns, bunions, ingrowing nails and other such pleasant little pets, are gathered into the relief kitchen, by using Briggs' corn and bunion remedies, Alleviator and Curative. Sold by Van Deusen Bros, R. Deyo and others.

PILES It is a simple word, but carries terror to the hearts of those who have dragged out a miserable existence for days, weeks, months or years, and who can describe their sufferings only by saying, "Life has no pleasure for me; if I were only out of my misery, what a blessing it would be." Let such sufferers cheer up, the messenger of peace is on the wing. Briggs' Pile Remedies have come—try them. They are to those afflicted with internal, bleeding, external and itching piles, indeed a blessing. Sold by Van Deusen Bros., R. Deyo and others.

Weaning Colts.

...colts are foaled during the month of ... All things considered, it is perhaps the ...me. Earlier, the mare would not have ...ceeded milk; later, the weanl... have too ...ch.

At four months old, colts are generally weaned, and this is among the most important periods in their lives. Ordinarily while sucking, if the food of both the mare and colt has been good, ... is fat. The point is to take from the colt no inconsiderable part of its nourishment, and still have it retain its flesh, and, what is better, its health. To accomplish this, some preparatory steps must have been taken. Colts love company. They get accustomed to that of their mothers, and if suddenly deprived of it will pine more or less. To obviate this difficulty, we have known breeders for four weeks before weaning to turn the colt into an inclosure with a spring calf, or even a cosset sheep, and not unfrequently a lone buck, whose isolation from the flock will dispose him to respond to the overtures of the colt at once.

This company will pacify him in the occasional absence of the mother, and prepare for final and complete separation.

When that time comes, it is always best to take the mother away from home, or entirely out of sight and hearing. If she is within reach of eyes or ears, the suggestion of loss will be oftener made than if only the appetite calls it up; and this latter can be in some sense satisfied by an extra allowance of what the colt has learned to love best.

The best place to keep the colt for the first three days is on an ample barn-floor well covered with old day, and so protected that there will be no chance for the colt to get its feet into crevices or otherwise receive injury.

He should be fed with the very best food that the season will admit of—grass with a little meal intermixed; a handful of oats for a change; water always handy, into which he can dip his nose fifty times a day; and what is of equal importance, he must have his new-made companion, the calf or the ram, to smell of, play with, and, in his colt way, talk to.

From four to seven days will be ample to partially wean him. He can then be turned into an enclosure with his company, which shall afford him larger space, both for exercise and in which to obtain food. The field where he is placed should be surrounded with a most substantial fence—at least one so high that the thought of scaling it will never enter the mind of the colt.

Besides, he should be visited by the owner, or some one to whom he has become accustomed, a dozen times a week, and should be always given some little dainty at each visit, besides words full of soothing and caresses, which he will most keenly appreciate. In two weeks the crisis will have passed. He will remember the mother, but not pine for her, and thereafter, with abundant food, well-chosen company, and careful confinement, he will be ready to enter upon his first winter with every hope of passing through it without harm, and beginning his second summer in a healthy and hopeful condition.

Apples.

The apple crop throughout the Union will probably exceed that of any previous year since the culture of fruit assumed its present importance, and became so widely spread.

Not unfrequently certain sections are entirely without apples, even if peaches and pears are reasonably abundant; but this year the crop is general in its distribution, and must be very large in its aggregate.

What can be done with them? Early fall apples can be gathered and made into cider. Nine bushels will make a barrel, and that barrel turned to vinegar ought to bring its owner, within a twelvemonth after it is ready for sale at least fifty cents a gallon. Good cider-vinegar has been worth sixty cents, and may reach that figure again before another apple year.

Some of the miserable compounds that people call vinegar, and which are bought and sold for such, cost less in cash, but are far more expensive to whosoever is beguiled into using them.

Another appropriation—if your cellar is not good for making vinegar, or your neighborhood lacks barrels which can be bought at a reasonable price—is, to feed them to hogs.—Our practice has been to boil them with potatoes, in the proportion of one bushel of fruit to two of vegetation, and the stew was not only palatable, but we believe the apples possessed an actual value not far from twenty cents a bushel.

As to winter apples, they should all be gathered, and with more care than would be bestowed on a crop which was small, and, of course, sure of ready sale.

When there is a scarcity, anything will sell; when the supply is abundant, the best always finds the readiest market, and the poorest frequently none.

Besides, good apples, well gathered and well preserved, cannot fail of finding a remunerative sale some time before the next season, if not this fall or winter. There cannot be an overstock next June, and if care in gathering and preserving will give to the fruit grower a sure market, then the bestowal of both is alike the dictate of prudence and economy.

Value of Fruit.

A Paris journal recently stated that "An eminent French physician says the decrease of dyspepsia and bilious affections in Paris is owing to the increased consumption of apples, which fruit, he maintains, is an admirable prophylactic and tonic, as well as a very nourishing and easily digested article of food. The Parisians devour one hundred millions of apples every winter."

An eminent New-England physician has remarked, after nearly forty years' experience, that when the fruit has been cut off in the towns to which his practice was mainly limited, there was always an increase of bilious troubles, and usually a larger than average amount of general sickness.

Cuttng Off the Seeds.

The maturing of seeds upon almost all kinds of plants is an exhaustive process. There are many of our annuals and biennials that will become perennials if they are not allowed to produce seeds, and this leads the florist to practice a system of removing all seed-vessels from plants where a strong growth is desired, and the seeds are of no value. Small herbaceous plants and shrubs will ... be benefited by the removal ... ally be greatly ... as soon as the... of the flower-stems ... are out of bloom, and the in... in growth will readily be observed. It is not only a waste of vigor in the plant to allow seeds to mature that are not wanted, but it also exhausts the soil to no purpose. In many of the comparatively slow-growing shrubs, like Rhododendrons and Azalias, this practice of removing the seed-vessels is of more importance than in those of rapid growth but it is beneficial to all.

A Very Nice Pudding.

Cut a pan of sponge cake through the centre. Spread over the lower half jelly—currant or any other, according to what you pour over it. Blanch and cut in four or five pieces two or three dozen sweet almonds. Stick the upper half of the cake full of the almonds, and lay it upon the jelly. Pour over the cake whipped cream, soft custard or foam sauce. To blanch almonds, pour boiling water over them, which removes the skin very easily, and cut them. W.

§ 8. Sections five, six and seven of this act shall take effect immediately upon its passage, but the second, third and fourth section thereof shall not become a law until it is ratified by the people in pursuance of the constitution and the provisions thereof.

§ 9. This act shall be chapter seven hundred of the laws of eighteen hundred and seventy-two.

LOOK AT THE FIGURES!

183,600 Machines per annum.

Many new machine companies have had their rise and fall—their machines once popular now scarcely known—others have made radical changes in order to exist; while the Howe Machine Company have adhered to the opinion of "Elias Howe, Master of Mechanics" ("The machine is mechanically correct; does not change"), built addition after addition to their factory, and to-day cannot supply the demand, although turning out six hundred machines a day—just a machine a minute.

THE ELIAS HOWE, JR. Sewing Machines MANUFACTURED BY The Howe Machine Co.

FOR FAMILIES AND MANUFACTURES,

THE GREAT PRIZE: EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE, PARIS, 1867. Awarded over eighty-two competitors

The Highest Premium,

THE ONLY CROSS OF THE LEGION OF HONOR AND GOLD MEDAL,

Given to American Sewing Machines, per Imperial Decree, published in the "Moniteur Universel" (Official Journal of the French Empire,) Tuesday, 2d July, 1867, in these words:

ELIAS HOWE, JR. { Fabricante de Machines a coudre exposant. Manufacturer of Sewing Machines, Exhibitor.

The Howe Sewing Machines

Are celebrated and known for doing the best work, using a straight and mush smaller needle for the same thread than any other machine. They are adapted to any and all kinds of family sewing and manufacturing of every description, (from fine lace to patent leather,) making a beautiful and perfect Lock Stich, alike on both sides of the article sewed, and will neither rip nor ravel, and uses less thread.

Every machine is as near perfection as the best machinery in the world can make it. It is the oldest machine and has more improvements, and is nearer perfection than any other machine, the parts being exactly alike. If any of the parts need to be replaced, the operator can replace it, and it will outlast and outwear any machine made. They are remarkably simple and easily learned, sure in their operation, and almost impossible to break or get them out of order. They use any thread directly from the spool. The needle has a perpendicular motion, (absolutely necessary for heavy work,) runs easily, a fast sewer, and almost noiseless. They do not soil the dress of the operator, and do not have to be taken apart to oil and clean. The New Improved Family Machine cannot be surpassed and is without equal, and we CHALLENGE THE WORLD to produce a better machine on points of merit. A Hemmer, Feller, Gatherer, Braider, Quilter, Tucking Guide, and all the other necessary Tools go with each machine, free of charge.

☞ Beware of spurious and bogus Howe's. The undersigned is the only authorized Agent for the Genuine Howe Machine.
